NAZIS SAY CRUCIAL WEEK IS AT HAND

Senator's Renew Hot Argument

Differences Between Senate, House About National Guard Are Reconciled

Hill Speaks

Senator Hill Favors Voluntary Type of Enlistments

Washington, Aug. 19 (AP)—Differences between Senate and House drafts of legislation authorizing mobilization of the National Guard delayed final congressional action on the measure today while Senators started another week of sharp debate over the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill.

Resort to voluntary enlistments instead of compulsory military training, Senator Hill (D-Ala.) told his colleagues, would "place a premium on slackenerism and a penalty on patriotism."

A joint Senate-House committee will try to iron out conflicting views on the National Guard bill.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate military committee told reporters that a House change in the wording of the resolution would leave the President without authority to call into service the officers' reserve corps of about 125,000 men, the enlisted reserves numbering about 30,000 and about 15,000 men in the regular army reserve. The Senate refused to accept this change and calls made in the House, thus sending the legislation to conference.

Amends Measure

The House also had amended the measure to eliminate reference to the National Labor Relations Board in a section making it an unfair labor practice for an employer to refuse to reinstate in his job a guardman called for active duty and released after training. Senator Hill urged quick enactment of the compulsory training bill under which men from 21 through 30 years would be required to register for possible military training.

The volunteer system has always failed when large numbers of men were needed in an emergency," Hill declared. "Shall we attempt a system which all the experience of the past shows will be a failure?"

Should the nation try the voluntary system and fail, he added, "would that not be evidence to the dictators that he lacked the will, the purpose and the capacity to defend ourselves?"

"No compulsion is more cruel and more unjust," Hill said, "than a ballyhoo campaign for volunteers."

Despite Wendell L. Willkie's endorsement of "some form of selective service" anti-conscription forces were confident today that the Senate would vote to defer a draft until the new year, instead of approving the Burke-Wadsworth bill proposal for immediate military training.

The confidence of the anti-conscription senators ran so high, that pressure was being brought to bear on Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) to make further modifications in his measure for the postponement of conscription until 1941.

The Maloney proposal, which is expected to reach a vote this week, now provides for immediate registration of all men between 21 and 31. In this respect, it is like the Burke-Wadsworth bill. The measure, however, stipulates that the registered men shall not be called for service before January 1, 1941, and then only if the army fails to obtain sufficient manpower by voluntary enlistments.

The pronouncements on selective service and the necessity for accelerated preparedness which Willkie made Saturday in accepting the Republican presidential nomination led some pro-conscription senators at first to predict re-enactment of the Maloney postponement proposal and quick passage of the Burke-Wadsworth immediate service legislation. To all appearances, however, the Maloney forces remained as strong as they were last week, when they were credited with a good chance for victory in urging further modification of the Maloney proposal, those opposed to immediate conscriptions advocated that registration be delayed as the actual calling of men be delayed.

Roosevelt Releases Wallace From His Safe Passage Must Be Allowed

Vice Presidential Running Mate Is Freed for His Campaign in Behalf of New Deal

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of agriculture, freeing his vice presidential running mate to begin active campaigning for the New Deal on September 5.

The secretary had informed his chief in a letter of resignation that he believed thoroughly in Mr. Roosevelt's "unique capacities to lead the American people in these troublous times when experience of the past shows will be a failure."

Should the nation try the voluntary system and fail, he added, "would that not be evidence to the dictators that he lacked the will, the purpose and the capacity to defend ourselves?"

"No compulsion is more cruel and more unjust," Hill said, "than a ballyhoo campaign for volunteers."

Will Meet Wednesday Eve at St. John's Hall; Mrs. Teller Temporary Head

Temporary officers for "Bundles for Britain," non-profit organization formed by Americans to meet active and immediate needs of Great Britain, were named Saturday afternoon to head the organization of a chapter in this city. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Myron S. Teller, 212 Fair street.

An open meeting to elect officers and to announce definite plans will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the parish hall of St. John's Episcopal Church on Albany avenue. All men and women interested in alleviating the suffering of the British people and in answering the urgent appeals from relief agencies are urged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Myron S. Teller is acting as temporary president with Mrs. C. E. Aldridge as temporary secretary; Mrs. Adelbert H. Chambers is in charge of locating a headquarters and Mrs. Carlton S. Preston is in charge of used clothing and Mrs. James Chase in charge of knitting.

Miss Alliger read the group a day letter which had been sent to all the 130 branches throughout the United States on Friday emphasizing the need for speed in sending money and supplies to England. The letter said, "Surgical instruments so badly needed as a result of extensive civilian bombings that clipper ships will be used next week to transport them. Will you forward immediately all available donations at once?"

Miss Alliger said that she felt that a city the size of Kingston could well support two relief organizations as Bundles for Britain and the Red Cross, each organization cooperating with the other and overlapping in requests.

In addition to knitting gar-port of Sidi Barrani, Egypt, and of encampments of armored cars southeast of Sollum.

All of the Italian planes taking part were said to have returned to their bases. One British plane was reported shot down by Italian fighters at Berbera.

A communiqué issued yesterday said one column, moving down the coast from Zeila, had occupied Bulhar, 40 miles from Berbera, while another had approached Le Faruk.

(In Cairo, the British reported their forces inflicted "important" losses on picked Italian troops supported by artillery, tanks and planes while "contesting every yard" of the withdrawal on Berbera.)

At the same time the high command disclosed British warships heavily bombarded the Libyan port of Bardia and inland positions. Though "not less than 300 rounds" were fired, the Italians said, casualties consisted only of one soldier killed and 11 wounded, while in accompanying air battles seven and possibly nine British planes were downed to three Italians.

(The British said the 25-minute bombardment forced the Italians to abandon Fort Capuzzo, a strong outpost, and took a heavy toll of supply bases at Bardia. Their report on the air fighting was nine and possibly 11 Italian planes destroyed, with no British losses. They interpreted the attack as seriously affecting Italian plans for a campaign against Egypt.)

(Withdrawal from Fort Capuzzo was denied in an official Italian wireless broadcast heard in New York by CBS.)

Biggest 'War' Opens

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 19 (UPI)—The largest peacetime "war" in the nation's history opened in northern New York today with defending American "Blue" and foreign "Black" invaders fighting with fireless arms, bladeless bombs, pseudo tanks and blank ammunition for the gateway to vital industrial centers. By 5 a. m., zero hour, many of the 90,000 troops through stealthy night maneuvers were arrayed along a 35-mile front stretching southward from the St. Lawrence and sparring for an opening blow.

Market Averages Indicate Losses

Less Than Two Million Shares Change Hands in Week's Deals

Securities and commodities were weak and sizeable losses in averages were registered as the market paid more attention to the fierce conflict raging over England last week than to the course of business at home.

Closing a week that was marked by a total volume of less than two million shares on the Stock Exchange, transactions Saturday were but 106,700 shares and prices recovered part of the losses sustained Friday. However, for the week as a whole declines were general. The industrials in the Dow-Jones averages had a net loss, as compared with the close of the previous week, of 50.1 points, closing Saturday at 121.98. Railroads were lower by .51 point, 26.27 and the utilities had a net loss of .97, closing the week at 21.63.

Commodities moved steadily downward during the week, wheat reaching the lowest level since August last year and spot raw sugar lowest since 1932. Following the sharp break of five cents a bushel Friday wheat moved upward Saturday as milling interests turned active buyers and final prices were up 3-4 to a cent a bushel. Cotton closed three to five points lower.

Following a dip, caused mainly by furnace repairs during the past two weeks, steel production in the Chicago district is scheduled to equal its previous high record of 97.3 per cent this week. A year ago the rate was 55.3 per cent.

Sales in retail furniture stores throughout the country are running 12 per cent ahead of last year, steady month-to-month gains having been registered since January.

As a result of the continental markets virtually have been closed to the American farmer. At the same time domestic production is large and competition from Latin America is increasing. Exports of farm products for the 12 months to June 30 show marked declines over previous year. Corn dropped from $0.427,000 to $22,951,000; wheat from $54,662,000 to $16,400; barley from $6,171,000 to $2,232,000 and vegetable food products from $278,573,000 to $220,690,000. Cotton, soy beans and wheat flour have shown some increases.

Housewives Angle Is Given On Social Security System

Women to Share in Plan as Well as Husbands at Proper Time of Retirement.

MRS. ELLEN S. WOODWARD

By Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Member, Social Security Board. Housewives and mothers of America have a vital interest in the Federal Social Security program—particularly in the old-age and survivors insurance part of this program. This new form of insurance is an important factor in the lives of the women who form the center of American family life. Consequently they should familiarize themselves with the family protection which results from their husband's participation in this insurance system. The wife of a worker covered by old-age and survivors insurance can take definite steps to see that her family has all the protection to which it is entitled, and she should learn what these are.

There are three groups of women who have special interests in social security. First is the wife whose husband is approaching the age of 65. Let us take the case of a wife of 60 who has a husband 62 years old. Through the years they have been relatively successful. He has worked for a company that paid him a good wage, and his salary from 1937 until the present time has averaged $225 a month. That salary of $225 a month may be expected to continue until 1943, when the husband reaches the age of 65. At that age he expects to retire.

When this man retires in 1943, a government check for about $40 will be paid to him each month. When the wife reaches 65 two years later, an additional check equal to half the amount of the husband's benefit will be paid to the wife. And that will bring the family benefit of this aged couple up to $39.63 a month.

How much this aged couple will eventually receive depends, of course, on how long they live, for those payments will go right on until they die. But if each of them lives until 1955, their social security income will have totaled more than $8,000. If they both live to be 85, the total will be more than $15,000. And if either of them dies, checks will continue for the one who is living.

Let us now take a second group of women who have two interests in social security—middle-aged wives. These wives and their husbands are building toward independence in their later years on a better level than was possible for

Various Cases Before Cahill In Police Court

It cost Pietro Orrico, 42, of East Kingston, $2 when he refused to obey the command of Officer Howard Kinch on traffic duty at Broadway and Cornell street on Saturday evening. Orrico pleaded guilty to the charge in police court this morning and Judge Matthew V. Cahill imposed the fine of $2 which was paid.

Robert Wigot of Batavia, was arrested Sunday on a charge of driving a car with four adults riding in the front seat. This morning he forfeited $5 cash bail in failing to appear to answer to the charge.

Thomas Rozzi of Brooklyn, charged with speeding 46 miles an hour on East Chester street Sunday evening, furnished $15 bail for his appearance in court on August 24.

Wilder Dawson, a negro of 47½ Van Buren street pleaded guilty to operating a car without having an operator's license and was fined $5.

Dallas Walker, 55, and Jennie Robinson, 50, of 15 West Strand, both negroes, were arrested Saturday evening on charges of disorderly conduct in staging a fight on Hasbrouck avenue. This morning the women informed Judge Cahill that they were not fighting but that she had been giving Dallas a tongue lashing.

"He was in a place on lower Hasbrouck avenue," she said "and I called him to come out and go home with me. I just scolded him."

Judge Cahill imposed a fine of $5 each.

William Stevens, 33, of Plattsburgh, was found sleeping in a car in the used car sales lot at 311 Broadway last night, and was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. He said he had served in the U. S. Army and produced his discharge papers. Judge Cahill gave him an opportunity of leaving the city.

Lawrence Palmer, 26, of Napanoch, arrested on a charge of public intoxication on Henry street, was fined $5.

Three Men Sentenced

Three men arrested by Ellenville police on public intoxication charges, were sentenced to 30 days each in the Ulster county jail when arraigned before Justice M. D. Schoonmaker. They are Sam Savage, 47, Ellenville; John Phillips, 37, The Bronx; John Shaw, 39, negro from Mt. Kisco.

His benefits 47 years from now, if he retires at age 65, will be larger than are benefits being paid today. If he works after age 65 at the same salary, they will be increased. Each year of his protection under the old-age and survivors insurance system adds, due to this account of his—adds to the amount of benefits he may draw at retirement. And more important in building the character of a man or a nation, he will realize that he is building this protection through his own efforts. He is acquiring a growing sense in the future and hence in the stability of our American democracy.

The third group of women who have a special interest in social security are the young wives of small children. Let's take the case of a wife who has three children—Tommy, who is 7 years old, Sally, who is 4 and little Robert, who is one year old. Her husband is receiving wages of $190 a month. This is his fourth year of coverage under the Social Security Act. Suppose tomorrow this husband, and the father of the family, is killed by an automobile.

He has bought a little private insurance, enough to take care of immediate expenses. But certainly not enough to give any permanent security to a young widow with three small children. The result of old-age and survivors insurance payments in this case is to hold the family together.

This widow is entitled to a monthly check, and each child is entitled to a monthly check until the age of 18. Checks in the amount of $70.72 a month will begin to go out to that family next month. And through the next 17 years while the children are growing up, the federal government will pay to that family more than $14,300 in insurance payments. If at the age of 65 the widow is still unmarried, monthly checks will begin again for her. These may bring the total through the years to 15, 18, or 20 thousand dollars or more, depending upon how long she lives.

These three groups of women—the woman approaching old age, planning for the retirement of her husband; the women in middle age, whose children are now starting lives of their own; the mother with young children in her care, responsible for their future security—have reason to want to know what old-age and survivors insurance means to each one of them.

These women are the shoppers of the nation. They buy most of the groceries, the shoes, the clothing. They often pay the rent and the insurance premiums when they come due. They know how all their other family accounts stand, and they will want to know all about this very vital family security account. Each one will want to be sure that her husband has given his social security account number to all his employers. She will want to know whether his employer has systematically and accurately reported every three months the amount of wages her husband has earned. She and her husband will want to know how this important account stands.

This is how they can find out.

The Social Security Board will give to each worker an annual statement if the worker asks for it. A postal card can be obtained at any Social Security Board field office. All the worker needs to do is fill in this card, put a penny postage stamp on it, and drop it in the mail. He will soon receive a statement showing the amount of wages credited to his social security account. Or the worker can simply write to the Social Security Board, Candler Building, Baltimore, Maryland, giving his social security number. A wage state-the east for the latter portion of the campaign. He is still considering speeches in the south, he said, adding that he would go into Texas if developments continue the way they are going now."

Stack of Telegrams

Willkie and Martin looked over a big stack of telegrams which the nominee said applauded his Elwood address. There was a "surprisingly great reaction," he added.

The two men chose Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire to reply later in the week to tonight's radio speech by Secretary Ickes, in which the cabinet member will counter Willkie's Elwood address.

Saying Bridges' job was "to polish off Ickes," Willkie continued:

"I hope that Mr. Ickes doesn't make his usual type of talk. If he does, Mr. Bridges may have to get a little rough."

The nominee spent an active Sunday, telling reporters he "slept like a baby" following the Elwood program, where he stood in a broiling sun to read a 55-minute address.

Up with the sun, he and Philip looked over some of the 1,500 acres of Willkie farmland in Rush county and then joined Mrs. Willkie to attend the First United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Frank E. Wiley, 30-year-old pastor, did not know they were coming until an hour before the service. He made no changes in his sermon, "He Leadeth Me," but did obtain some electric fans to cool the brick church. He invited the men to take off their coats—many had come in their shirt sleeves—but no one accepted the offer.

Willkie stayed indoors during an afternoon rain—the first in nearly a month—but later went out for a walk. He had a full schedule today, a visit to his farms in the morning and a brief talk at 2:30 p.m. central standard time, at a Rush county welcoming program.

The non-partisan arrangements committee explained the welcome was for both Mr. and Mrs. Willkie, for 10 days.

ULSTER COUNTY FAIR

The annual Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day will be held Wednesday, August 21 at Forsyth Park and from the increased interest noted this year's county-wide event should be a great success. The educational benefits together with the entertainment and the many premiums have made this annual fair and picnic a great meeting place for both farmer and city dweller.

The educational point need not be stressed for people realize nowadays that a county fair and picnic is no longer just a place of amusement but a school of instruction particularly for the advancement of domestic science and farm living. On the grounds at a farmers' field day, latest inventions and improvements for both the farmer and the housewife are displayed and explained and a very valuable service is rendered.

There will be extensive exhibits in the various departments for which prizes will be awarded. These departments will include horses, cattle, poultry, fruit, homemaking, Granges and 4-H. The judging, done on a demonstration basis, will be a big feature. Expert judges will explain the various awards as they are made.

Besides the educational, farm and home exhibits, there will be a program of athletics, amusements and picnic lunches—all of the important attractions that go to make such an affair a success. The field day also affords an opportunity for friends from all over the county to meet and renew acquaintances. City and county folks hold a genuine get-together on this occasion. Every one is invited to attend and there is no admission charge.

The committee in charge of arrangements for this field day and picnic is to be commended for the well-arranged program, equally attractive to both farm residents and city dweller.

The valuable information distributed at this annual affair has encouraged Ulster County farmers to improve their farms and they return each year in quest of newer methods.

THE DAY'S NEWS

There's news for everyone on front pages these days. Here's a sample:

The story of the battle of Britain takes top rank. It's completely absorbing to any reader with wit enough to know how vital the outcome will be to civilization and to himself and his family. There's the other foreign story about Il Duce and fears as to his suspected current plan of invading Greece.

For those who enjoy mystery tales of spies and subversive activities and all the rest, there's the story of Communism rearing its ugly head in Hollywood, with a few movie stars, directors and writers named as members of the Communist Party and heavy contributors to its funds.

More cheerful news for the general reader is that of the crowd of 60,000 people at a night baseball game, deliriously happy in the hope that the home town team may be a pennant-winner this year.

An ambassador, thought to be headed for punishment for indiscretion, has been officially absolved. Perhaps he never rated an official spanking; perhaps also he'll be more discreet hereafter.

Major Seversky, noted aviation authority, considers the war in the air over Britain the main bout, not a preliminary match. A newspaper man, discovering South America for himself, writes an illuminating story of Ecuador, "world scene in miniature."

Nowhere else in the world are newspaper readers more honestly and variously served. May we be worthy of this freedom of the press—both readers and those who gather and present the news.

MONSTERIA DELICIOSA

No sea monster is this with the horrific name—or German tank. It may be delicious, but it is no monster in spite of the appellation. It is a new fruit—a cross between the banana and pineapple, now appearing in the New York markets at 75 cents apiece. It is said to be shaped like a large banana, to have the rough skin of a pineapple. Perhaps it would be too much to say that it tastes better than either, but there are people who say that it tastes as good as either and different in an interesting manner from either.

New and curious things to eat always attract the human tongue. But if the growers want this funny fellow to take hold of the popular attention, they'll have to give it a name easier for the human ear.

FRENCH LABOR'S TURN

The 4,000,000 workers of the French General Confederation of Labor have met the fate of workers in the original totalitarian countries. Leon Jouhaux, their leader and not long ago one of the most powerful men in France, is in retirement and may be fortunate if he is not deprived of liberty as well as power.

What has happened in France is what happened to Labor in Italy and Germany and Russia. There is only one union in those countries. It is a "company union" and the government is the company. To try to take up a grievance with "the boss" or to go on strike or to demonstrate in any way against low pay or long hours is treason.

It would be well if all Americans studied these developments thoughtfully and without "class" bias. There are vital lessons to be learned by capital, labor, consumer group, and public officials in America.

England might be "conquered in 30 days," but America is still willing to sign a few 30-day notes for her.

Faith is important, but so is healthy disbelief.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

LONG HOURS OF SLEEP

Sleep is as important as food in building up and maintaining the body tissues. Children that do not get enough sleep are restless; have a poor appetite, and are usually below normal weight. Similarly, for nervous and emotional adults, from 8 to 10 hours sleep is necessary to maintain health. For the average healthy individual, ten hours sleep is usually more than is necessary.

There exists in the mind of many the idea that unless they get off to sleep immediately after going to bed and sleep soundly for 8 to 10 hours, they will suffer both mentally and physically, in fact, they are in danger of a nervous breakdown!

As mentioned above, sleep is important because it gives all the body processes a chance to rest and enables the body tissues to store energy. Therefore, those who are nervous or not well get more help from sleep than from food and drugs. It would seem, however, that physicians have been attaching too much importance to sleep for the average healthy individual and in many cases these healthy individuals begin to worry about not getting enough sleep and the worry may make them unhealthy in mind and also in body. What they forget is that they may be something on their mind that is bothering them but little, yet their sleeplessness is due to trying to work out a way of overcoming this something.

Dr. J. P. S. Cathcart, Ottawa, Canada, in The National Health Review, states that in adults the importance of sleep is exaggerated, that is, in those who have no discomfort or pain.

When a patient comes to a physician complaining of being unable to sleep, it is important to inquire into the likely cause. The most common cause is some emotional situation or disturbance, frequently concerning the events of the day that has just passed. Instead of giving these patients sleeping pills or powders, the suggestion is that the physician should explain how worries or problems keep the nerves alert and cause wakefulness. The patient should also be told that "they will not fall apart even if they lose two or three nights sleep," that most adults sleep too much, and that worrying too much about loss of sleep does more harm than the loss of sleep itself.

To one whose active mind will not allow him to pull down the curtain on the events of the day, the suggestion is to relax the body, knees and arms slightly bent, and breathe as if completely exhausted. Tests—blood pressure, pulse, temperature—show this relaxation to be 50 per cent as effective as sleep.

Willkie's Blunt Attack Upon President Was Something for Which Roosevelt Asked in His Own Acceptance

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 19.—To end the blunt accusations and militant attack which Wendell Willkie in his acceptance speech directed at President Roosevelt, it is necessary to go back to the President's speech of acceptance delivered on July 18 by radio to the Democratic national convention at Chicago. Mr. Willkie had been nominated by the Republican convention and Mr. Roosevelt knew who his opponent was to be in the campaign. Yet in the face of that knowledge, Mr. Roosevelt said to the American electorate: "If our own government passes to other hands next January—untried, inexperienced hands—we can merely hope and pray that they will not substitute appeasement and compromise with those who seek to destroy all democracy everywhere."

Such an innuendo, such an implication that Mr. Willkie was less a champion of democracy than Mr. Roosevelt could not go unanswered. Hence the Republican nominee devoted much of his acceptance speech to making clear that he believed Hitler and Hitlerism should and could be beaten. He said:

"I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to out-distance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after, and I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way. The promises of the present administration cannot lead you to victory against Hitler, or any one else. This administration stands for principles exactly opposite to mine. It does not preach the doctrine of growth. It preaches the doctrine of division... why that is exactly the course France followed in her destruction."

Having thus eliminated the basic objectives of foreign policy from the campaign as issues, Mr. Willkie turned to what apparently will become the major issue—whether effective organization of American resources can ever be obtained by an administration which is distrusted and suspected by the producers and manufacturers of America as not so much interested in defense as in transforming the whole economic system into a form of collectivism, called New Dealism, but resembling in its operations the totalitarianism of Europe. Who can best mobilize industry and organize America's defense? To what are the delays in defense due since May 10th when "total war" in Europe started? This is the paramount issue.

The administration is already planning to attack American business men as unpatriotic. Certain "left-wing" publications have already begun to publish propaganda handed to them by the administration charging American business men with lack of patriotism and with major interest in profits only. This sort of smear tactic is expected to throw up a smokescreen to cover up the tragic blunders and delays that have already encompassed the defense program in the last 90 days.

So many inquiries were made that Mr. Roosa obtained a large card on which he painted the answers to many of the questions most frequently asked. The card, which was posted on a bulletin board displayed conspicuously in the church yard, read:

"TO ALL INTERESTED
The man on the steeple is a real live man.
He eats three meals a day.
He is not afraid of the rope breaking.
The steeple is 212 feet high.
He will be on exhibition for about two weeks."

The education board of the city held an important meeting on Friday evening, May 28, 1910, when they appointed Charles R. Moulton of Watertown, principal of old Kingston Academy, and Norman C. Gile of Matteawan as principal of old Ulster Academy.

Mr. Moulton was selected to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Principal Myron J. Michael to become superintendent of the city's school system, while Mr. Gile was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Principal J. Schuyler Fox, who became principal of the Poughkeepsie High School.

An important date in the hotel life of Kingston was the opening of the new Stuyvesant Hotel, at Fair and John streets, on Saturday, June 4, 1910. The opening was marked by the attendance of nearly 200 members of the Ulster County Pomona Grange.

Home Course Opens Way To a Cartooning Career

Charts Show Figure Drawing

The thrill that comes to a young artist when his first cartoon is accepted by the art director!

Cartooning for newspapers and magazines is a fascinating field offering an interesting life and big profit to those who are successful. And with ambition and a germ of talent you can learn cartooning at home.

Charts explain each step in drawing cartoon figures—from the first rough lines to the finished sketch. Our diagram at left shows your first step, the "matchstick" man. With just a few straight lines you indicate action gestures.

Then, as in the next diagram, you give bulk to your figure by substituting double lines for the single lines, and you start to add details, comic touches in clothes or expression.

And facial expressions, details like hands and feet, are easy to draw with examples to go by. Lines radiating behind a figure are a comic touch, indicating speed.

Our 24-page booklet by a professional cartoonist gives detailed instructions, diagrams for drawing cartoons. Explains composition, the use of ink, pencil, crayon, wash. Tells how to draw cartoon animals, caricatures; gives tips on marketing

Classes Announced for Annual West Park Flower Show

Mrs. William Annin van Beekhoven of West Park, chairman of the eleventh annual West Park flower show and bazaar, has announced the official list of classes to be featured at the show when it takes place in Ascension parish house, West Park, Thursday, September 5.

The privilege of exhibiting at the show is open to all, subject, of course, to the following regulations:

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Please Read Rules Carefully

Exhibits will be received at the Parish House from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on the day of the show.

All flowers must be grown by the exhibitor in Classes 1 through 68.

Containers furnished by committee must be used for all exhibits except artistic arrangements. All other containers should be removed as soon as possible after the show closes. The committee is not responsible for loss or breakage. Exhibitor's name should be on bottom of container. Tray containers for vegetables, fruits or gourds must not exceed 24 by 18 inches.

No person other than the judges will be permitted in the building during the judging. Decisions of the judges will be final.

An exhibitor may place only one entry in any one class.

Due to limited space each exhibitor is limited to 25 exhibits in the entire show.

It is assumed that all flowers are donated unless otherwise stated.

All entries are to be exhibited on tables or shelves provided by the committee.

No ribbons or materials other than foliage to be used in exhibits except in niches.

Flowers exhibited are for sale (unless otherwise stated) and may be claimed after 7 p.m.

SUGGESTIONS

Use as little material as possible to produce desired effect. When possible, use foliage of plant displayed.

Flowers in wilted condition will be disqualified.

In judging arrangements, points noted by the judges are perfection of arrangement, color, harmony, proportion, distinction, relation to container and type of container used.

PRIZE LIST

Ribbon awards in all classes.

Blue, first; Red, second; Yellow, third; White, honorable mention.

Special Sweepstakes Silver Cup to be awarded to the winner of the greatest number of points. Must be won three times to be retained.

The Rector of the Parish of the Ascension is presenting the Rector's Cup for the Junior Class. The decision for awarding the Cup to be made by the Judges.

The Misses May and Anna Quimby of Wilson avenue spent the week-end in New York city.

Mrs. Lillie D. Lent of Pleasantville is spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Claude Stokes of Stone Ridge.

Miss Sarah DeWitt of Hurley entertained at a tea Saturday afternoon at her home in honor of her cousin, Miss Margaret Veder, who is spending the summer in Hurley. Mrs. Rose H. Tappan and Mrs. Adam Vonder Linden assisted the hostess by pouring.

Blue ribbon counts THREE POINTS; Red, TWO; Yellow, ONE. Honorable Mention and Special Prize Ribbons DO NOT count toward Sweepstakes Cup.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Taylor, the manager of El Cabrillo Rancho, has offered $50,000 for the ranch. Constance Cabrillo's family is eager to sell but she knows the money will soon vanish. She decides to go to California and investigate.

Chapter Three

Fuller's Junction

CONSTANCE Cabrillo stopped twice enroute to the airport, once to telephone and learn that the plane was leaving at seven and to make a reservation on it, the second time at her office where she spent a precious half-hour closed with the head of the reality firm.

That man wiped his brow as she whisked away.

"I hope she never tries to sell me the Empire State Building," he wheezed to his secretary. "I'd buy it."

"Shall I lie to the family for you?" asked the secretary sympathetically.

"If you will," he replied, wearily, and listened to the young woman inform the Cabrillos that he had sent Miss Constance on an important mission; that he did not give out information on prospective purchases of out-of-town ter-tory, consequently he could not tell them where she was; that she kept an overnight bag at the office, packed for such trips.

Constance garaged her car, signaled a cab and drove to the airport, smiling a little at the thought of a Cabrillo taking a trans-continenal trip with no more luggage than she carried.

She thought of the Cabrillos for the next sixteen hours while the big ship roared through the sky, under stars, under sunshine, across plains misty with the first fall rains, over mountains blazin' white with their new mantles of snow.

As the ship circled in over San Francisco Bay, she thought of John with a guilty start, and wondered how long he had waited for her.

She felt as lost and alone as the plane looked in that sea of fog, and later, breakfasting at the airport, wondered if she had done wrong; if it hadn't been the Cabrillo in her that had caused her to throw her hard-earned commission away on this trip when she might have paid bills with it.

By noon, boarding a local train which would steam its way to the town nearest the ranch, she was trying to comfort herself with the thought that her father wouldn't have left that provision in the will if he hadn't expected her to act as she was acting.

And then she relaxed. Outside the window were tawny hills growing purple in the distance; pale golden valleys dotted with grazing herds; fruit orchards crooked limbs holding tattered yellow leaves.

Then came the redwoods. The train plunged into a dusky cavern of them, seemed to nose a stream half-hidden in a thicket of young bay trees, and finding the bank proceeded along it at an insolent pace.

Hours passed and Constance dozed to sit up, alert, at the brakesman's call of "Fuller's Junction!"

Taylor's Ranch

THE train was in a clearing now, the hills falling away to give the river clearance to the sea, and when it stopped, Constance looked out from the vestibule to find fog rolling in, vast wet billows which settled down, crushing the few buildings of the junction into nonentity.

She felt her spirit crushed with the foreboding outlook, and when the train pulled out, she felt it was her last link with civilization. "Expectin' to be me?"

Constance wheeled to find a few loafers eying her with curiosity, a station master standing just behind her awaiting an answer to his question.

"No," she admitted, "but I hoped to hire a cab which would take me to El Cabrillo Rancho."

"El Cabrillo," mused the man. "Oh, you mean Taylor's ranch."

Constance immediately hated Taylor. So the countryside already thought of her home as belonging to the manager, did they?

"Well, now," the station master continued. "Can't say as there's a cab within a hundred miles, but . . . Sam!" he called, and one of the loafers separated himself from a milk can. Is Min rentin' out Tim's car these days?"

"Shore is," drawled Sam. "Two bits an hour, lest you like a flat rate, and promise of pay for repairs. Min ain't aimin' to pay no more on that bus. It like to tool all Tim's insurance to fix it so it'd run again, after Tim killed himself in it."

Constance swallowed, but it was Min's Tim's car or the next train back, and where would she wait for the train? There wasn't a hotel in sight. She could see the entire town from where she stood, and only a barbershop and post-office, a general store and undertaking parlor and a garage were visible.

Sam offered to take her to Min and grew loquacious on the way. "Bet you're a-goin' out to see Peter," he offered. "He shore has a way with girls. Been back from college goin' on six years, but

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Not One

The month of August has arrived; so, without hesitation, Let's take the thing apart—and lo! A rare conglomeration. It has a large supply of heat, 'bout which we all complain: Assorted picnics—(ants thrown in)—quite often graced by rain: Too many of its revelers on crowded highways dash—So carelessly—to grief and death, as cars end up ka-smash! That's part of what each August has. "What hasn't it?" you say: Well, it's the only month—of twelve—without a holiday!

—L. Myers

It makes a difference how you phrase your requests:

Beggar—Lady, could you give me a quarter to get where my family is?

Woman—Certainly, my poor man, here's a quarter. Where is your family?

Beggar—At the movies.

New Minister (hopeful that he had made a good impression)—Do you think they approved of my sermon?

Husband—Yes, I think so. They were all nodding.

Read it or Not

In only one instance in our history have both parents lived to see their son become president. There were Jesse and Hannah Grant. In all, eight mothers and five fathers have lived to see their sons elevated to the presidency: The mothers of Washington, John Adams, Madison, Polk, Grant, Adams, McKinley and F. D. Roosevelt. The fathers of John Quincy Adams, Taylor, Grant, Harding and Coolidge.

A minister who regarded his morning study hour very carefully told the new maid that under no circumstances were callers to be admitted—except, of course, he added, in case of life and death. Half an hour later the maid knocked at his door:

Maid—A gentleman to see you, sir.

Minister—Why, I thought I told you.

Maid—Yes, I told him, but he says it's a question of life and death.

So the Minister went down stairs and found an insurance agent.

Mrs. Bobbs—How are you this afternoon, my dear?

Mrs. Bobbs—Down and out and glad of it.

Mrs. Bobbs—What on earth do you mean?

Mrs. Bobbs—I've just come from having my first airplane flight.

It is the big things that count, but the little day-by-day things add up big.

Small Boy—Dad, what are the notes in this board box?

Dad—Those are knot holes.

Small Boy (after consideration)—Well, if they're not holes, what are they?

A musical critic says that a saxophone is an ill wind that nobody blows good.

There is usually a reason for things:

He—Everything seems brighter after I've been out with you.

She—It should—you never go home till morning.

Fortunately all of the beautiful damsels do not get into the movies. Otherwise some towns would be fairly void of feminine youth.

A farmer was losing his temper trying to drive two miles into a field when the Minister came by:

Farmer—You are just the man I want to see. Tell me, how did Noah get these into the ark.

She looked down through the gray vapor as she drove, to see a jagged short line far below, snag-toothed rocks sticking their ugly fangs upwards, swirling foam of an angry sea washing their base. She shivered and drew back.

Fog swept across the highway in curtains, lifted for a few yards, then settled again.

How was she going to see the signs they had told her to watch for?

El Cabrillo Rancho ran from the low-tide line to the crest of the second inland range. Permission was given the State highway to traverse the coast line, but it was posted at intervals and passed through a succession of fenced areas and over cattle guards.

The car rattled over four bridges of what appeared to be dove-tailed slats set parallel with the road, then at a sudden lifting of the fog, she uttered a cry of triumph.

A white sign faced her with the familiar words:

EL CABRILLO RANCHO

Private Property

Permission to pass over this road revocable at any time,

P. T. Taylor, Manager.

Will Be at Fair

Johnny Roventini, who started a New York hotel 14 years ago and is now the world famous "Call Boy," master of ceremonies and ambassador of good will on three of the Philip Morris programs, will appear in uniform and brass buttons at the Dutchess County Fair, August 27 to 30, at Springbrook Park, Rhinebeck.

Guess Who Bagged a Deer
Eastport, Me. (UPI)—A small deer swimming in circles several miles out to sea from this port was rescued by two fishermen, who hauled the tired animal into their boat as they would a load of fish. When they reached their wharf they borrowed a truck and carted the deer to the woods and set it free.

New York — A honey-haired blonde from Dixie — exceedingly jubilant — alighted from a plane at LaGuardia Field, climbed into an airplane bus, and — Tossed her shoes and nearly $450 in bills from the bus window.

Next day she asked the police to get her money back. They couldn't help her.

Signed and Sealed

Kansas City—A couple appeared before James A. Kilmor, deputy recorder of deeds, for a marriage license but before she accepted it the bride said firmly:

"My husband has to sign this oath before we get a license and I wish you 'authorities' would witness it."

The oath: "I do hereby promise my wife I won't go out at night after we are married. I will not play cards or x x I will only call on women accompanied by my wife. I will not drink anymore than my wife allows. I will let her be boss in every way."

The groom signed.

Gaiveston, Tex.—After riding in an ambulance with its siren screaming, an English seaman, victim of a hit and run driver, turned dazedly to hospital attachés with the question:

"Is the air raid over yet?" He had experienced numerous air raid siren warnings in England.

Dearer Than Money

Chicago—It was sentiment—not money—that caused John M. Petras to make a dogged but fruitless pursuit of two armed men who robbed him of his pocket-book.

After the pair had taken his wallet, Petras chased them several blocks down the street until they leaped a fence and disappeared.

"It wasn't the money," Petras told police. "But that pocket-book contained the only pictures I have of my two children."

NAZI BOMB WRECKAGE IN LONDON SUBURB

This picture, cabled from London to New York, shows, according to the British censor caption, a demolished house in the southwest suburb of London after it had been struck by a bomb during the heaviest Nazi air attack on Britain of the war. Air raid precaution workers and firemen are shown extinguishing the flames.

NAZI PLANE SHOOTS DOWN BARRAGE BALLOON

A German plane shoots down a British air-defense barrage balloon according to the British censor approved caption on the above photo, transmitted from London to New York by cable. Note the flames bursting from the balloon an instant after the bullets hit their target. The balloon was part of the defense over Dover.

NUNS PASS BOMB-SCARRED BRITISH DEPOT

Radioed from London to New York, this photo shows two nuns descending the steps beside an unnamed railroad station in a London suburb where, according to the British caption, German aerial bombs wreaked damage during a recent mass raid. Note the bomb-scarred walls.

A large number of spectators interested in seeing keen swimming competition were satisfied with the races held at Williams Lake yesterday afternoon. In the stop photo are the three who were first to finish in the two mile marathon race. Left to right are William Leonard of Schenectady, president of the Adirondack A. A. U., presenting the first place trophy to Joseph Lucas of Brooklyn, who swam for the St. George Dragon Club, "Woody" Prokosch of Newburgh, who placed second for the Sutton Club of New York and third place winner "Clin" Mochon of Troy, a member of the Prospect Park Swim Association. In the center photo are the winners in the 50 yard Free Style event sponsored by the Kingston Kiwanis Club for women residents of Ulster County. Left to right are Betty Erse of Kingston, third place; Lois Parry of High Falls, who won first place; Judith Saaton of Woodstock, second place and Joseph F. Deegan, vice-president of Kiwanis, who was on hand to present the trophy. In the bottom picture are left to right: Jerry Martin, commander of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, who presented the Legion trophy for the 100 yard Free Style swim to Walter Himmelberg of the Williams Lake Club. Ed Coughlin, athletic director of the Legion, is the other man in the group.

Keep an Eye on Mr. Ketchuk, New Heavyweight Title Seeker

AP Feature Service

New York—Charley Ketchuk has just completed "Practical Experience I," the first part of a three-year course on "How to Become Heavyweight Champion of the World."

He passed his final examination with a 10-round decision over Wally Sears and Professor Jersey Jones marked his protege's report card with an A for ability, A for patience and perseverance and AA plus for willingness to learn.

Professor Jones is one of Promoter Mike Jacob's tub-thumpers. He stepped into the part-time professorial robes when he took over the 20-year-old Ketchuk just a year ago. The publicity man-manager, believe it or not, has been pulling his typewriter punches on the kid.

Even now he is seeking no immediate place in the fistful sum for his charge. Says Professor Jersey:

"When Ketchuk turned pro in July of 1939, we worked out a definite schedule for him. The first year we tagged for 'practical experience,' the second for 'advanced opposition,' the third for the actual 'drive for the championship.'

Ketchuk has something

Despite Jersey's paradoxical aversion to publicity, the story is out that he really has something in Ketchuk. Since Charley first pulled on the gloves for money on July 14, 1939, he has fought tens isn't exactly a Who's Who of heavyweight boxing, but Jersey didn't want to overmatch his boy. In some fights, Jersey asserts, he had Ketchuk hold his KO punch for a few rounds, just to give Charley a chance for that "practical experience."

Charley is the youngest of eight children of Russian parents. He's a native Pennsylvanian but has lived the last eight years at Endicott, N. Y. He attended high school there and was considered an excellent collegiate football prospect at center but turned aside helping hands from five colleges to become a fistficker. He won 40 of 44 fights as an amateur.

Better Opponents

This year, under Jersey's program, Ketchuk will meet third and fourth raters, maybe some of the Second Ten in the heavyweight ranks.

Pat Comiskey is Ketchuk's first big goal. Comiskey, a powerful New Jersey heavy—and he's really heavy—is moving along on a program somewhat similar to Charley's. Even Jersey admits that his boy might take a trimming if the pair met now. But they won't meet too soon, trust Mr. Jones, and when they do Jersey sees a knockout for Ketchuk.

Comiskey is bigger physically, with some four inches in height and reach and perhaps 15 pounds in weight. Ketchuk, though, is faster, smarter, and a thunderous fighter. Comiskey isn't so hot in close. There's where Charley will win—he has both a 19 times. Eight opponents, after knockouts, decided that Mr. Ketchuk's heavyweight championship ambitions were okay by them. Nine fights Charley won by decision. He drew once but came back the next week to wallop that same opponent. Dan Merritt of Cleveland with superior "practical experience," beat Ketchuk, though, is faster, smarter, and a thunderous fighter. Comiskey isn't so hot in close. There's where Charley will win—he has both a

Denny Shute Will Be In Kingston Tomorrow

Famous Golfer Brought Here by Russ Keiter of Montgomery Ward; Will Play Here

Denny Shute, winner of the P.G.A. tournament in 1936 and 1937, will be in Kingston Tuesday. In the morning, Denny will be at the Montgomery Ward store and in the afternoon at the Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Through the cooperation of Russell Keiter of the local chain store Denny will be brought to this city while enroute to the Canadian Open in Montreal. Shute opened play in this match Wednesday.

Denny left Miami, Fla., Saturday, August 3, and before reaching Kingston he will have appeared in the following cities: Raleigh, N. C.; Baltimore, Md.; Chester, Pa.; Albany, Glens Falls and then to Kingston. After he leaves here he'll have stop-overs in Poughkeepsie, P.G.A. tournament in Hershey, Pa., Norwich, Binghamton and finally on September 5 in Scranton, Pa., for the Anthracite Open.

While at the Wiltwyck course Denny will play against Walter Thiel of Twainskill; Dick Baxter of the Williamstown Taconic Golf Club and J. Watson Bailey. The public is invited to watch the 18-hole match.

He won the playoff for the Glens Falls Open after getting a tie with Horton Smith at 276. Denny finished in a tie with Ralph Gudahl, for the $10,000, Dapper Dan Open at Pittsburgh, but lost out in the play-off.

Shute topped the P.G.A. title in 1936 and 1937, to rank him with the best golfers in the country. He has been a member of the Ryder Cup team three different times. Now Denny is recognized as one of the best in his line in the world.

Presbyterians Win Federation Series Over Fair by 6 to 3

'Beans' Baltz Hurls Club to Deciding Triumph at Army Field; Bill Newkirk Loses

Presbyterians' hard-hitting softball team is the 1940 champs of the Federation League. In the fifth game of the playoff series with Fair Street Friday night at the armory diamond, the Presbyterians won 6 to 3.

Paced by homers off the bats of Cliff Van Valkenburgh, and Peter Slover, the Elmendorf Street Church Club conceded the offerings of Bill Newkirk, Sr., for 11 hits while Baltz was hurling five-hit ball for the winning club.

For Fair Street Schultz slammed out a homer while Bill Bush and Sweeney poked out triples. But the three extra-base clouts couldn't overcome the Presbyterians' margin.

Fair Street took the lead in the second with two runs and held it until the fifth, when Presbyterians shoved in four runs to go ahead 5 to 2. A run in the last half of the fifth made it 5-3. Presbyterians scored its final run in the sixth.

powerful long range attack and that punishing close-in artillery."

This winter in Madison Square Garden or next summer in a New York ball park the two will meet, says Jersey. The next ultimate target—or have you guessed?—will be Joe Louis, or whoever may be occupying the heavyweight throne at the time.

Rare 'Streamlined' Fish Caught Near California

The American Museum of Natural History has acquired a rare streamlined fish, called Acrobus Williamsi, which has neither scales, ventral nor balancing fins, and is believed to be an aquatic champion. Dr. John T. Nichols, curator of fishes, has reported that the fish is of its kind known to have been caught, the fish was taken by L. Yeney of Salinas, Calif., at Monterey, Calif.

The fish is of great interest in science, Dr. Nichols said. It has known near relatives, but the shape of its tail suggests a relationship to the mackerel. It was purchased with the object of making a study of fish evolution. A cast was placed on exhibition.

The specimen measures 5 feet in length and weighs 5 pounds. The lack of scales accounts for the name Acrobus, which is derived from the Greek word "akros" means "without ears." The last part of the name comes from Charles A. Willoughby, an English agent who caught the first specimen in 1887 on the Pacific coast.

Aids Lumbering

Development of dry kilns with automatic control of temperature, humidity and air circulation has radically changed lumber seasoning practices, according to the forest products laboratories of the department of mines and resources, O.

Certain species of wood can be dried in kilns and put to exact uses a few days after being sawed, while other species, more difficult to dry, may be made ready for seasoning in a matter of weeks. Merely timber was piled in stacks for several months and sometimes years. If it was required for exacting uses such as for furniture, it was held in a building for a longer period before being felled.

The use of these highly efficient dry kilns also eliminates to a large extent losses through checking, cracking, staining and other seasonal defects which formerly were sometimes responsible for reducing the value of wood by as much as 25 percent.

The Malays believe that children can acquire the characteristics of birds by eating them. So they feed kingcrows and shrikes to infants, make them lively and communicative. The birds, however, are compelled to eat fantailed flycatchers which are very active, industrious birds.

A great deal of destruction of bird life is wrought through the Malay fondness for pets. Children are given young storks, bulbuls, pigeons and starlings to play with—naturally, with ultimately fatal results.

Some birds are given special protection simply because enforcement of regulations would be impossible. Fish owls, which are relatively valuable birds, are killed for food even by native policemen.

Hilly City Club
Scores Two Off
Neff for Victory

Bob Bush Hurts Well for Eight Innings; Triple
With Bases Loaded in Ninth Puts Locals Ahead

Despite a four-run rally in the half of the ninth inning Sunday afternoon in Newburgh, Charlie Recreations' couldn't win the ball game. Newburgh scored one in the last half while Neff was hurling to take the decision by the score of 6 to 5.

Young Bobbie Bush hurled only in the first eight frames for the local club but was forced to be relieved in the last after his long run brought the sacks in Kingston's big scoring spurge.

The Hilly City club shot into a score in the first session on five hits and a local error. But as far as earned runs were scored, Newburgh made one. An error by Schnell and a hoist into center field should have been taken caused the damage for Bush.

Newburgh held the margin until the fifth when the local Recs pushed over a run to make it 4-1. From the first, Bob Bush pitched superbly, keeping men of Charlie Recreations in complete check. Except for that difficult opening session for that difficult opening session Bob had Newburgh bandaged.

Bullitt Predicts Attack Upon U. S.

Senators and Representatives," he urged. "Write to your newspaper. Demand the privilege of being called into the service of the nation. Tell them that we want conviction. Tell them that we back up General Pershing."

(General Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force in the last war, advocated in Washington August 4 that "at least 50" destroyers left over from the World War be made available to the British.)

Bullitt, the first high ranking member of the administration to advocate naval aid, declared that "the destruction of the British Navy would be the turning of our Atlantic Maginot Line."

"Without the British Navy," he asserted, "the Atlantic would give us no more protection than the Maginot Line gave France after the German troops had marched through Belgium."

Gives Warning

Warning against unpreparedness, the Envoy said:

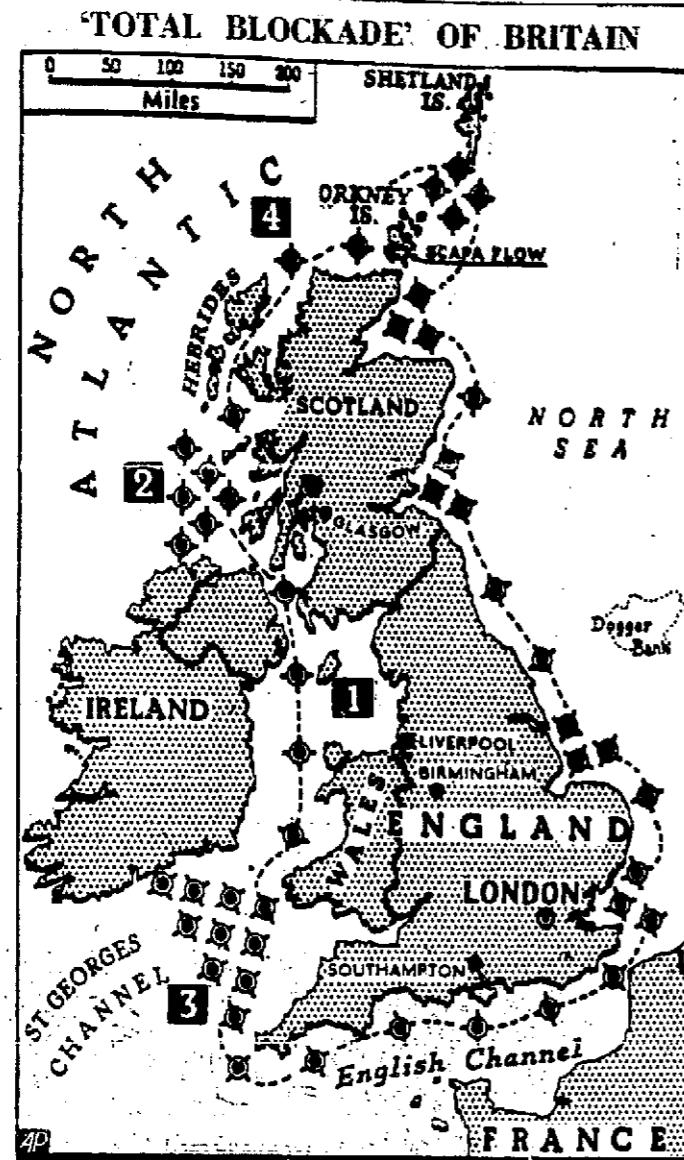

"The men and women who tell you that the dictators will not attack the western hemisphere may be honest, wishful thinkers or they may be agents of the dictators; but in either case, by lulling you into a false security and regarding your preparedness for defense, they are keeping the way clear for an assault on America by the dictators. They are enemies, consciously or unconsciously, of our country and our liberties."

If Great Britain is conquered, Bullitt foresees that Island along with the whole continent of Europe organized into one economic unit directed from Berlin. No country North or South America, he said, would be able to trade with Europe except on such terms as might be pleasing to the dictators.

In the Pacific, he asserted, would be the Japanese navy, co-operating with the dictators, which would be able to cut us off from our supplies of rubber and tin and would compel us to leave a large part of our fleet in the west coast.

With Bullitt on the platform were two other American Envoys to German-conquered European nations, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Ambassador to the Polish government-in-exile, and John Cudahy, who returned recently from his post in Belgium.

The German military machine today, Bullitt declared "is without question the most powerful that has ever been created" and you may be sure that, if the Nazis have an opportunity to turn it against us, it will be as strong or stronger than it is today and will be used in the most unexpected manner."

Germany formally declared a "total blockade" of the British Isles and disclaimed responsibility for the safety of the U. S. refugee ship American Legion, enroute from Finland, if she maintains her planned course near the island of Rona (4). The Nazis claim that their new mine fields, belting the British Isles, close entrances to the Irish sea (2 and 3) and already have destroyed three ships near the Isle of Man. (1).

The Ambassador, returning to his native city after seven years in Moscow and Paris, spoke over two major radio hookups (NBC-CBS). He was introduced by Roland S. Morris, former U. S. Ambassador to Japan and president of the American Philosophical Society under whose auspices he spoke.

The attention of American hunters is drawn to the fact that the regulations, imposed this year by the Canadian Government, against bringing firearms and ammunition into Canada have been modified and American hunters will, as in previous years, be permitted to bring their guns across the border.

"Bundles for Britain" has been duly registered with the Department of State. All its activities will be strictly within the limits of the neutrality act. Arrangements have been made for the distribution of all supplies through voluntary organizations in England.

"Bundles for Britain" desires to enlist the aid of all men and women in the United States who believe that Great Britain is bearing a greater burden and is suffering more acutely than is generally believed, and who therefore wish to assist in the task they have set before them, and will welcome all offers of assistance from both rich and poor, from those who can help with their hands and those who can help with their purses.

Complete details of the Kingston chapter will be discussed at the meeting Wednesday. It is hoped by the organizers of the chapter that the Kingston unit will meet with as much enthusiasm as have the other units throughout the nation, and that a working chapter will be functioning within a few days.

Science to Delve Into 16th Century

Seek Knowledge in Hudson Valley Excavations.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Archologists, through excavations in the Hudson valley, expect to acquire knowledge of the people who inhabited that region prior to the Seventeenth century.

Dr. Mary Butler of the University museum, Philadelphia, will direct the work which will continue throughout the summer. Vassar college initiated the project last year under a five-year grant from the Carnegie corporation.

The Hudson valley, Dr. Butler said, "has been an open road for north-south travel and trade ever since man first came to the New world."

She said knowledge will be sought of the people who "traveled the regions back beyond the Seventeenth century through the preceding centuries of Indian occupation that started human history in the region now known as New York state."

In connection with excavations last year she said:

"Last year's field work tested 14 Indian sites, including rock shelters, camp sites, shell middens and a workshop or flint-quarry site. It found prehistoric culture sequence in a black topsoil level characterized by broken shell and containing pottery and stone and bone implements, overlying a stony yellow subsoil level that lacked shell, pottery and worked bone."

"Fragments of ground slate semi-lunar knives show a connection with northern cultures, and pottery decorations show Iroquois contact, but the early Indians of the valley undoubtedly belonged, like the Algonquins whom the white men found there, to the Woodland pattern, basically different in many details of way of life from the Mississippi pattern, to which the Iroquois belong."

Dr. Butler has been engaged in field work in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Illinois and Guatemala. She will be assisted by Carlyle S. Smith of Great Neck, L. I., who directed excavations for the Nebraska Historical society.

New Legion Officers Conduct First Meeting

Roosevelt Releases Wallace From His Position in Cabinet

and wisdom are so essential." Therefore, he said, he approached the work of the campaign with eagerness.

In response, the President asserted:

"You and I are content to leave determination of the issues in the campaign this year to the calm judgment of the voters. Under our form of government there is no higher arbitrament than the bar of public opinion."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that Wallace, one-time Republican and the son of a former Republican secretary of agriculture, had been assigned the job of devoting his time and talents exclusively to an interpretation of your agricultural program to the American people."

Thus the burden of carrying other issues to the people apparently will fall on additional cabinet officers and members of the administration, since Mr. Roosevelt has insisted repeatedly that his concern over the defense program would leave him little time for purely political debate.

No Evidence of Acceptance

No evidence of any inclination on the part of the Chief Executive to accept Wendell L. Willkie's challenge to debate campaign issues has become apparent.

In his letter accepting the Wallace resignation, the President told his political teammate:

"You have adhered without deviation to the settled processes of democracy. You and I remain unshaken in our faith in those processes and in the efficacy of the policy of the good neighbor in the field of foreign affairs."

Wallace handed his resignation to Mr. Roosevelt in Washington last Thursday. The President dictated the letter of acceptance Saturday aboard a special train which carried him to northern New York for a conference on continental defense with Canada's prime minister and for a review of troops engaged in mimic warfare.

The correspondence gave the Democratic candidates an opportunity to exchange words of praise carrying political connotations.

Each asserted the resignation meant only a change and not an end to their eight years' relationship.

Wallace Anticipates Chance

Wallace said he looked forward gallantly "to the rare opportunity I shall have to discuss with the American people the matters in which you and I are so profoundly interested and which are of such grave importance to the country."

"The opportunity to work on so broad a front under your leadership in times of extraordinary national need," he added, "has been immensely satisfying."

Now I am looking forward to another period, another opportunity or even greater significance."

The Chief Executive declared that Wallace had found agriculture prostrate in 1933 and had come "to the rescue."

"I know, and the farmers... have knowledge, of the deliberation, true wisdom and statesmanship which have gone into the formulation of your agricultural program," he said.

"I know and they know that bankruptcy, ruin, despair and disaster, which had been their previous portion through long years of neglect and incompetence at Washington, gave way under your guiding hand to a greater prosperity, security and, above all else, to a return to self-respect and sane thinking."

Car Just Misses Plunge in Creek

Bronx Driver and Others Escape Serious Injury

Henry E. Bauer, 24, of 1027 Walton avenue, the Bronx, and three companions, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the auto Bauer was driving swerved from the road on Abeel street, crashed through the guard rail and upset a few feet away from the bank of the Rondout creek shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

According to the police report Bauer was the only occupant of the car who suffered injury. He suffered lacerations of the head and leg.

The Bauer car left the road on Abeel street near the city line. It tore down four wooden posts and about 40 feet of guard rail as it swerved from the highway and plunged down an embankment.

It came to rest on its side within 20 feet of the edge of the creek bank.

During the last week members of the Kingston Power Boat Association have been razing a two-story building on the Hitebrant Boat Yard for the purpose of salvaging lumber to be used in the construction of a club house. The razing operations are under the supervision of Commodore Frank Maier and Harry Rice. Next season the club expects to have one of the finest anchorages along the Hudson valley. All members of the Kingston Power Boat Association are urged, by Commodore Maier, to be at the Hitebrant Boat Yard at 6 o'clock sharp, this evening.
